A true Champion on the race circuit

AS the only woman in her class, race car driver Lynne Champion has a point to prove every time she hits the track.

Add to that the expectation that comes with her surname.

"Yes, I've certainly got a lot to live up to," she laughs.

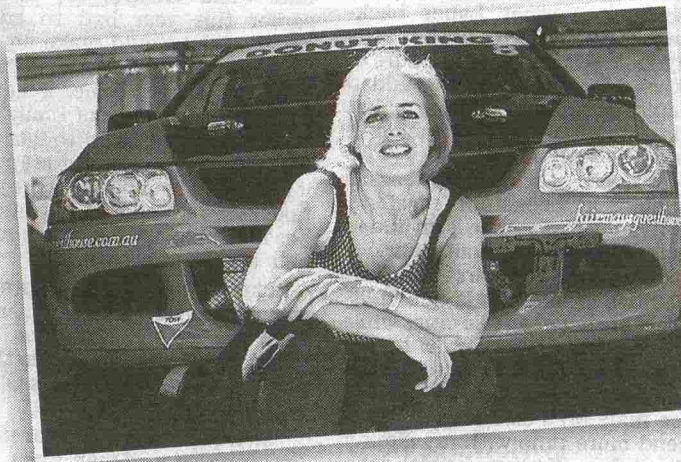

Two weeks shy of her 51st birthday, Lynne thought she'd run out of time to live her dream of joining the motor sport ranks.

"At my age, to take up motorsport is a huge challenge because it's really for the young kids, so to be here giving it a go is pretty amazing," she says.

A celebrated chef (Lynne runs her own guesthouse in Lancefield, Victoria, where she also owns Champions Restaurant and two fashion boutiques), she debuted in the sport at the Clipsal 500 last year.

This weekend she is contesting the Australian Performance Car Championship in a Mitsubishi EVO VIII Lancer.
